QBank signs framework agreement with leading Swedish industrial company

QBNK Company AB (QBank), global provider of enterprise Digital Asset Management SaaS solutions, signs framework agreement with a Swedish global company within the industrial sector (the Company).

The Company, a Swedish global industrial company, is an ideal customer for QBank's enterprise Digital Asset Management (DAM) solution. QBank and the Company have entered into a framework agreement for the delivery of Digital Asset Management services for the Company and its subsidiaries.

The Company has chosen the enterprise package of QBank DAM with multiple integrations and additional enterprise features like consent and privacy management, AI package, and external Media Portals. The solution will be delivered as soon as initial workshops and configuration details have been set during the beginning of the fall.

The framework agreement makes it easy for the Company's various operations to get started with QBank, which contributes to joint management of digital files and facilitates collaboration internally between companies and operations, but also for external partners.

“We are incredibly excited to add this company to our customer portfolio. Global companies with operations on multiple markets and with complex organizational usage are a perfect fit for our flexible enterprise product”, says QBank's CEO Anna Gomes.

QBNK Holding AB (publ) is a successful SaaS company within Digital Asset Management (DAM) and offers QBank, a cloud-based DAM solution for storing, managing, and distributing images, videos, documents, and other digital assets. QBNK has proven a strong SaaS growth over the last years with global enterprise companies on its list of customers. QBNK is based in Stockholm, Sweden.
